OPDs in Government hospitals full with patients post Diwali

■ Staff Reporter

OUT Patient Department (OPD) remained full at Government Hospitals after opening of hospitals on Saturday. Many patients with complication of breathlessness, gastrointitis and other abdominal complications were registered in Government Victoria Hospital OPD and Government Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose Medical College and Hospital.

Dr Pankaj Budholiya, Physician, Government Victoria Hospital said that we have given consultation and medicine to many patients post Diwali. Some of them have complications related to breathlessness and indigestion problems, they were admitted in different wards. He said however emergency services were opened round-the-clock, but a few cases of burn injury were registered. Majority of them were given treatment in OPD. On the other hand, Paediatrician Dr Vijay Anand said that Diwali residues resulted in heavy smog pollutants in the air due to emission of harmful gases that cause prolonged respiratory disorders. He said Diwali is most awaited festival of the year which spread love and brings everyone close with lights and sparkling of lamps. Although, this is one side of Diwali which is full of joy and happiness but there is another side. Increasing use of firecrackers during the festival has led to respiratory and other diseases.

Elderly citizens and children are the most affected. Even pregnant women fall in zone, where they have to keep themselves away from poisonous emissions caused due to crackers, he added. Diwali smoke often results in smog, causing breathing problems and also prolonged respiratory disorders.

He said during last one year, we when minutely observed between 8 pm to 9 pm in the city, in a crowded area like Motor Stand, Shastri Bridge, there is a layer of smog, which results in intense air pollution. Breathing is essential for survival. Adequate amount of oxygen is vital for humans to function, he added.

Even after 3 years, multi-storeyed industrial complex still in cold storage

According to Jabalpur Trade and Industry Centre, records in Jabalpur district only around 300 applications are pending for space. Following continuous delay in materialising the concept of multi-storied complex only dragging opportunity far for new entrepreneurs to take a good start. For new entrants an opportunity that is getting delayed that could bring their start up enterprises in multi-storeyed complex just by paying an affordable cost

■ Staff Reporter

EVEN after three years of declaring to develop a multi-storied industrial complex for MSME and new entrepreneurs in Jabalpur the proposal remains in cold storage. Development would resolve space shortage for new MSME coming up in Jabalpur district under different Government funded schemes for self-employment orientation and entrepreneurship development like Start Up India, PMSRY and Chief Minister Udhya Yojana. On demand of different business organisations of the city multi-storied complex was declared by Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan to bring an innovative solution for shortage of space in form of multi-storied industrial complex for MSME and for enterprises coming up in start-ups.

According to Jabalpur Trade and Industry Centre, records in Jabalpur district only around 300 applications are pending for space. Following continuous delay in materialising the concept of multi-storied complex only dragging opportunity far for new entrepreneurs to take a good start. For new entrants an opportunity that is getting delayed that could bring their start up enterprises in multi-storeyed complex just by paying an affordable cost.

At present new entrepreneurs are bound to spend high in residential areas that are not fit for enterprise or workshop operations. The project is important for Jabalpur's industrial growth. The city has strong presence of MSMEs as ancillary industries. With existing MSMEs strength two industrial areas are full to the capacity.

For new emerging sectors for city like ready-made garment manufacturing, textile and food processing the space is lacking and with changing trends space for new MSME units are falling short. Change in trends and products in every sector the need of new space reserved for industry has become need of the hour. Perhaps, all the running Cluster projects in Jabalpur have sector specific multi-storied industrial complexes offering desired space to existing members or entrepreneurs only. For start-ups the availability of multi-storied space would give a booster support to start ups. It may be mentioned that for information technology, food processing, handloom, textile and fashion sector the projects are waiting for re-launch. For food processing, fashion designing and readymade garment separate cluster projects are taking shape. In Jabalpur Information Technology Park and Electronic Manufacturing Cluster being developed in Madan Mahal Hills and 17 acre area allotted in Urdua Khurd for proposed sweets manufacturing cluster. District Industry Centre, General Manager, Devvrat Mishra opined that the department at state headquarters level is working to materialise the concept of developing multi-storied industrial complex as per declaration of Chief Minister. The project of multi-storied flat styled MSME complex at
